

Third quarter U.S. economic growth remained strong, driven by consumption and investment growth. The labor market is gradually nearing full employment and still adding jobs at a healthy pace. Inflation remains near or below the Fed's two percent target in both the core CPI and the full index, with little expected acceleration. Over the past month, there has been an increase in the price of oil. Short- and medium-term borrowing costs have increased as Fed interest rate hikes are expected to continue or accelerate.
